Introduction

The d66 series was inspired by my work on the Ultimate Toolbox for AEG. If you are unfamiliar with that book, it's a 400-page tome full of fantasy names and ideas laid out in random lists for d20-based games. That book was a lot of fun to work on and people raved about how it is possibly the most useful game aid in their collection. I wanted to bring this boon to sci-fi games and Traveller in particular.

With my (then) very young company writing game aids for Traveller Role Playing Game, it seemed only logical to set those first d66 lists in the Foreven Sector. With the license affording me the ability to use terms associated with the Official Traveller Universe, these lists would be readily applicable to most Traveller games.

A year later, the d66 series has become one of the best selling Traveller PDF series of all time. We at Jon Brazer Enterprises are proud to bring you this compendium. It represents the cumulation of a year's hard work and a year of people telling us how useful these lists are to their game.

I would like to give a special thanks to Albert “GamerDude” Beddow, Jr who wrote the Character/NPC Names section single-handedly. In truth, he delivered more than we could fit in this book. We only wish that we could have used them all. I feel the book is greatly enhanced by his efforts. Thank you, sir.

We hope you enjoy this compendium as much as we enjoyed creating it.

How To Use This Book

In your hands, you hold inspiration for players and referees alike. This book contains the names of allies and enemies, ships and guns, the planet your character grew up on and the space station of his last assignment. It describes tattoos on your character's arm or the emblem's on a villain's flight suit. The d66 Compendium is designed to give you all the inspiration you need when your players are asking for more details or when your imagination needs a boost.

Each list in this book contains 36 options laid out in a standard d66 format. Choose the list most appropriate to your need with the help of the Table of Contents above or the Index on page 47. To randomly select a list-entry, role 2d6's and read them like percentile dice. Example: if you role a 4 and a 1, select number 41 on the list. Using two different color or size dice and deciding which is the ten's place and which is the one's place will keep down confusion. Alternatively, you can simply ignore the numbers and choose the entry on the list you like when the need arises.

Roll your dice and enhance every aspect of the universe you love. Know the names of Moons, Space Stations, and that scruffy-looking Vargr sitting at the bar as soon as your players ask. Blast off for Adventure and leave the details to the d66 Compendium.

Based on one of Traveller's best-selling PDF series, this collection of quick-reference lists brings the Traveller universe to life with an abundance of imaginative multi-use descriptions to embellish your worlds, your characters and your encounters. It delivers those niggling details about technologies or cultures that make your game come alive – gender-specific names for many of the setting's alien inhabitants plus mega-corps, manufacturers, pirate ships and even seedy underworld organizations. Tie up the finer points of character creation with names, contacts, homeworlds, scars, and more. The d66 Compendium gives players and referees alike the charts to adventure.
